Gary Ghirardi is the communications staff person for the National Network Opposing the Militarization of Youth and has developed web based projects for the Committee Opposed to Militarism and the Draft, The Project on Youth and Non-military Opportunities, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, U.S. Section, and War Resisters International in London.

Veterans For Peace knows that the U.S. is a nation addicted to war. At this time of uncertainty, it is critically important that we, as veterans, continue to be clear and concise that our nation must turn from war to diplomacy and peace. It is high time to unwind all these tragic, failed and unnecessary wars of aggression, domination and plunder. It is time to turn a page in history and to build a new world based on human rights, equality and mutual respect for all. We must build momentum toward real and lasting peace. Nothing less than the survival of human civilization is at stake.

Veterans For Peace is in Nicaragua at the 40th anniversary celebration of liberation from the Somoza dictatorship.

Veterans for Peace is an international organization with over 120 chapters across the United States and abroad, made up of military veterans and non-veterans dedicated to building a culture of peace, exposing the true costs of war, and healing the wounds of war.

Some of these chapters have Truth in Recruitment or counter-recruitment outreach to youth as part of their community engagement for peace.

COUNTER RECRUITMENT ON ARMED FORCES DAY - Veterans For Peace UK

Counter-recruitment or Truth in Recruitment by Peace Veterans is one of the most effective forms of witness about the realities of military service to our youth because young people recognize the value of the “real” in a popular culture so obsessed with the virtual.

TRUTH IN RECRUITING

Today, less than 0.5% of the U.S. population serves in the armed forces, compared with more than 12% during World War II. Very often, the public's perception of the military lifestyle is limited to what they've seen on the news, TV, or video games.

Recruiters are salespeople, plain and simple. They undergo extensive sales training and are judged by their superiors primarily upon the number of recruits they sign up. Sign up large numbers, and they're judged to be a good recruiter. Fail to sign up the minimum number assigned (known as "making mission"), and a recruiter is looking at a dead-end career. This policy pressures some recruiters to adopt unethical practices in order to "make mission."

As veterans we know the truth of what happens in war and VFP members across the U.S work with young people before they enlist, to help them understand what it's really like to be part of the U.S. military.

Answers to the Military I.Q. Quiz

- 1). Answer is D, 8 years are required in the all volunteer military. The length of active duty varies depending on branch of the military. In fact, it could be more than 8 years. At the height of the Iraq/Afghanistan wars, tours were extended for hundreds of thousands of military personnel without their consent. Called "stop loss", it can be implemented for the duration of the war. (see enlistment contract USC 506,12103 (c).)
- 2). Answer is C. As Dick Cheney famously said, "The military is not a jobs program. We train enlistees to be soldiers. According to the Veterans Economic Opportunity Report, 53% of veterans on separation will face a period of unemployment". It is why the unemployment and homelessness among veterans is so much higher than the civilian population.
- 3). Answer is C. At least 1/3 of the women in the military are sexually assaulted or harassed. 2/3 of the women who reported, said they had "had unwanted sexual contact". Military Sexual Violence has been called an epidemic. (What every Girl Should Know About the U.S. Military, War Resisters brochure).
- 4). Answer is B. The U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs estimates that 31% of vets of the American war in Viet Nam have PTSD, 11% of those from the Afghanistan and 20% from the Iraq war. Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) is called the "signature wound" of Post 9/11 wars.
- 5). Answer is A. Department of Defense Directive 1332.14 allows anyone in the Delayed Entry Program to reject their signing a enlistment contract. You can write a letter or just not sign.

Yet new challenges for Peace Groups are emerging in our schools and communities as the military struggles to meet its recruitment quotas and young people are less willing to enlist or cannot meet basic qualifications.

And we see an unprecedented response from the Department of Defense to meet their quotas by introducing or expanding militarized programs into our public schools that are basically assuming educational roles for our economically vulnerable students...

... or directly militarizing public schools to prepare youth configured for military recruitment...

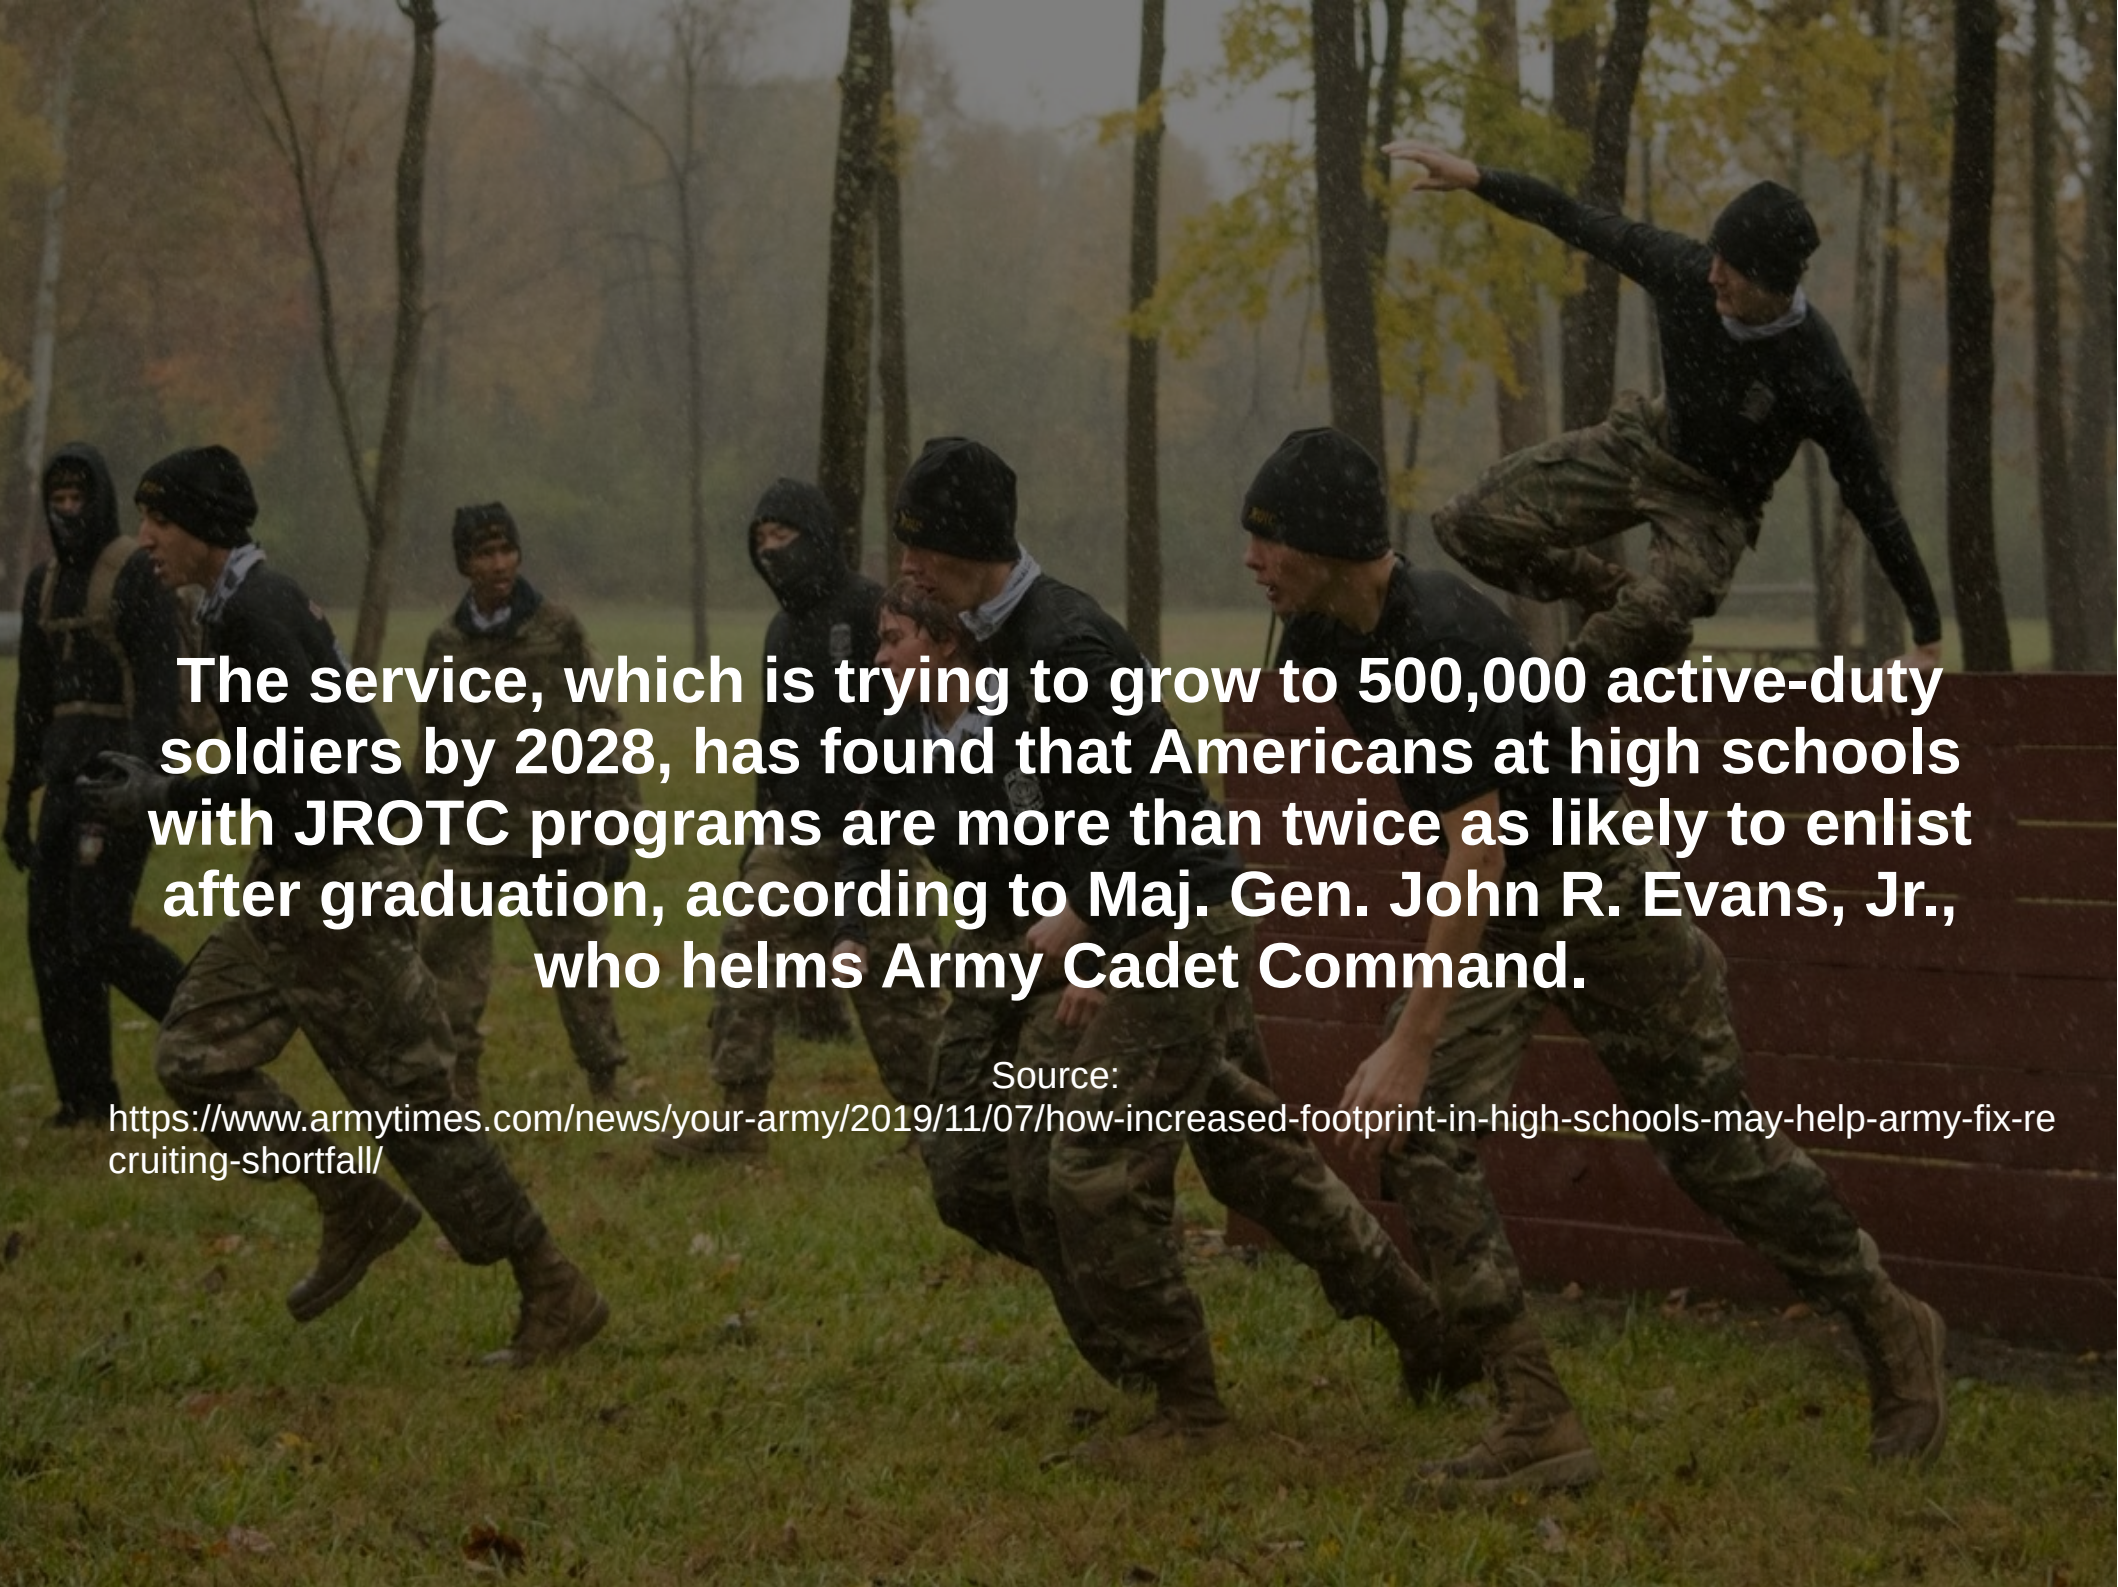

Ames Marine Military Math & Science Academy Middle School, Chicago

Army, Navy, Airforce, and Marine JROTC unit expansion looming in our public high schools, represents the greatest existential threat to civilian education in the United States and is the canary in the coal mine for advancing cultural militarization for our country.

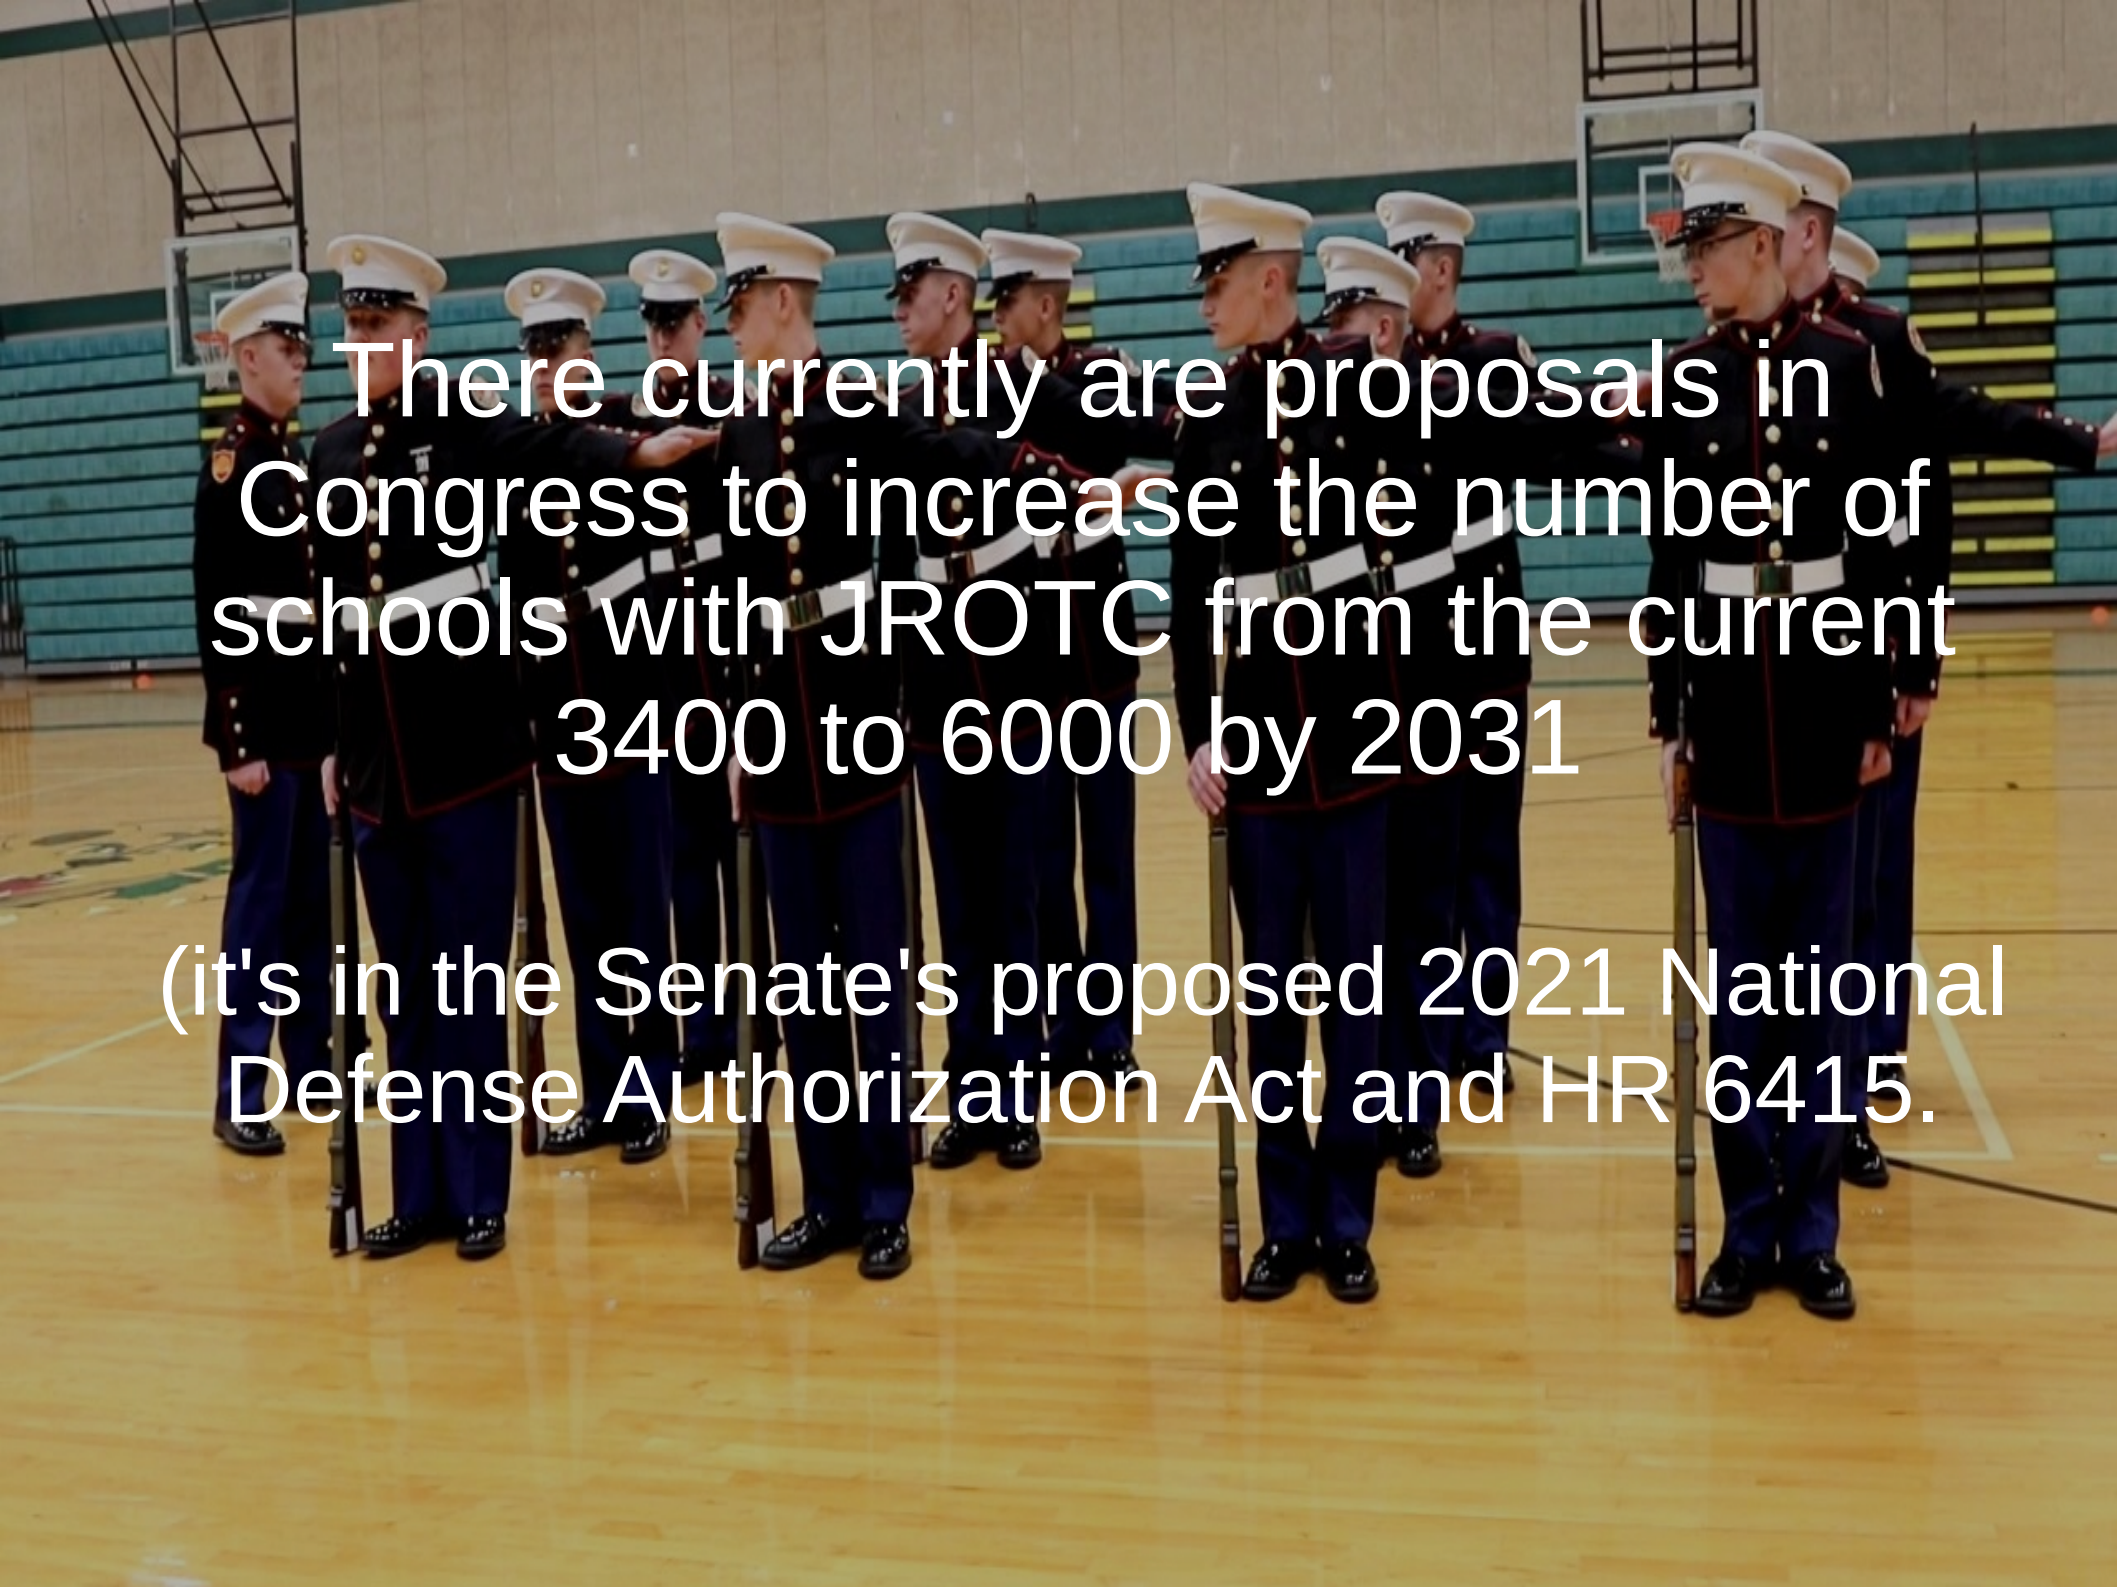

A group of young men, likely Army Cadets, are running through a grassy field. They are wearing dark berets, black long-sleeved shirts, and camouflage pants. One cadet in the foreground is jumping over a low wooden obstacle. The background shows a line of trees with some autumn-colored leaves. The overall scene is dynamic and suggests a physical training exercise.

The service, which is trying to grow to 500,000 active-duty soldiers by 2028, has found that Americans at high schools with JROTC programs are more than twice as likely to enlist after graduation, according to Maj. Gen. John R. Evans, Jr., who helms Army Cadet Command.

A group of JROTC cadets in dark blue uniforms and white hats are standing in a line on a wooden gymnasium floor. They are holding rifles. In the background, there are green bleachers and basketball hoops.

There currently are proposals in Congress to increase the number of schools with JROTC from the current 3400 to 6000 by 2031 (it's in the Senate's proposed 2021 National Defense Authorization Act and HR 6415.

Department of Defense Science Technology Engineering and Math Programs, STEM, are continuing to gain a greater presence in our public K – 12 primary and secondary public schools and in our Junior Colleges and Universities. School districts, hard pressed for funding, resort to Pentagon offers and relinquish the role for teaching Science classes, and replacing Physical Education periods with JROTC.

In the near future, post COVID, this need is likely only to increase.

Learn More at: <https://dodstem.us/stem-programs>

And increasingly, schools are allowing students to take JROTC to satisfy their Physical Education requirement.

And Now with a Pandemic

...and schools closed due to concerns for viral spreading...

...military recruiters have temporarily lost access to high schools for in person military recruitment contact with youth.

So the Pentagon is allowing recruiters to go on social media platforms without strict guidelines to reach youth through organized teams called...

...and the military is recruiting youth through organized gaming online.

The image shows a screenshot of the Call of Duty Warzone game interface. The main menu is visible on the left, with options like 'PLAY', 'BATTLE PASS', 'WEAPONS', 'OPERATORS', 'CHALLENGES', and 'PROGRESSION'. The 'BATTLE ROYALE' option is highlighted, but it says 'Locked while following the party leader'. Below it are 'BR STIMULUS TRIOS', 'PLUNDER: BLOOD MONEY', and 'PRACTICE MODES AND TRIALS'. The main game area shows three characters: a soldier in tactical gear, a ghillie suit, and another soldier. A play button is overlaid in the center of the game area. On the right, there's a small video inset showing a streamer with a beard and glasses, wearing a headset, with the name 'STONE MOUNTAIN64' and '28' below it. At the top right, there's a notification: 'Brian Hoffman tipped 300 million stars! first time sending stars I have been watching for a while now.' Below that, the player's stats are shown: 'CP 8200', '[YOLO]StoneMountain64', 'Rank 154', '4 / 20', and '15'. At the bottom, there's a chat bar with 'Chat (524)' and icons for chat, friends, and settings. The bottom right corner has 'Share', 'Comment', and 'Like' buttons. The bottom left corner has a 'Back' button and a 'Done' button. The bottom center has a 'View Challenges' button. The bottom right corner has a progress bar and a timestamp '4:45:08'.

The U.S. Military is the largest employer on the planet but it is not a jobs program; it was created to fight our wars.

The Pentagon Esports platforms were not created for gaming; they were designed for the purpose of military recruitment.

The Army's esports team, which began in 2018, has never had overwhelming public support. The use of popular shooter and strategy games such as Call of Duty; Counter-Strike: Global Offensive; Fortnite; Magic: the Gathering; and more to recruit gamers was seen as morally questionable by some.

War is Not a Video Game!

Additionally, an important aspect about militarized video games is not that they create or don't create serial shooters, as defenders of this type of entertainment consistently conflate as an issue when peace activists raise concerns...

...but rather desensitize the gamer population to real violence and normalize militarization as a solution to problems resulting in conflict.

Hours spent participating in ritualized virtual killing has a cost and this normalization ultimately serves to promote the brand of the military and supports militarized foreign policy unconsciously...

...and, of course, when coupled with Pentagon Egames sponsorship, it produces direct recruitment contact with participating gamers and opportunities for military recruiters to data mine participants for later attempts to recruit them.

Those of us in the Peace Community that take issue with unlimited access to our children and youth by Pentagon Recruitment programs in our schools and online will

Push Back

But we need more participation by historical allies like Veterans for Peace to alert public concern about new recruitment technologies directed at our youth by the Department of Defense.

We need more allies in the schools like sympathetic teachers and school administrators who care enough about their students...

...that they will allow Peace Veterans into their schools to talk about the realities of military service and the human costs of our wars...

...and we deserve a seat at the table with military recruiters when we are parents and it concerns our children's futures, their privacy rights, and our parental rights over minor aged youth.

According to a Rand study about Army enlistment, a full 46% said they enlisted due to purely occupational reasons; only 9% said they joined for entirely institutional ones....

Source: <https://taskandpurpose.com/popular/5-reasons-soldiers-join-army>

Misplaced national spending priorities result in insufficient alternatives to joining the military for many, but that makes it even more important to find the ones that do exist and raise awareness of them through the educational work of local and national c-r groups.

We need more teachers and students to form peace clubs in their schools...

The background wall is decorated with numerous college pennants from various universities, including Indiana, Columbia, Fresno State, University of Denver, and Texas State. There are also posters on the wall, including one that says "HOW TO WRITE AN EMAIL" and another that says "NATIONAL GUARD". The students are standing around the table, looking at the man and the materials on the table. The man is wearing a white t-shirt with a black peace symbol logo. The students are wearing backpacks and casual clothing. The hallway is carpeted and has a drop ceiling.

From left to right: a blonde woman in a grey blazer, a woman with long grey hair in a dark top, a woman with short blonde hair and a red patterned scarf, a Black woman in a black beret and orange cardigan, and a woman with dark hair and glasses in a yellow cardigan. A fifth woman is partially visible on the far right. Microphones and water carafes are on the table. In the background, a large screen displays the title 'Dangerous Women: The International Women's Peace Movement and N...' and a graphic of a woman with an American flag. A sign on the left wall partially reads 'LL-WOO' and 'TICIPATOR'.

Can Veterans for Peace convene a working group to address school militarization?

There is the potential for peace networks to cooperate to develop strategies to coordinate their social media messaging collectively, to educate and raise public awareness, and...

...to occupy the spaces and places where Military Recruiters are contacting children and youth .

That means online during COVID and after and in our public schools when they reconvene.

Activists who seek to interject critical chats on military sponsored esports gaming sites should assess which messaging to implement that will have the greatest impact with youth but stay within the rules governing those social media platforms...

...and coordinate social media actions, with multiple participants and chapters if possible, to increase your presence to others in the gaming environment...

...and to put on notice, to both military and youth gamers, that activists are monitoring these sites with a concerted concern for militarized messaging and an awareness of military recruiting taking place.

An aerial, grayscale photograph of a city with a large, stylized stack of US dollar bills rising from the center. The bills are layered and fanned out, creating a tall, irregular column. The city below shows various buildings, parking lots, and roads.

The Department of Defense, with its unlimited budget,...

...will adopt new forms of military recruitment to conform to the technology that youth use to communicate with and to each other.

Truth in recruitment activism needs to innovate for the changing times.

Cultural militarization will increasingly divide our country and does not serve a legitimate national defense.

Discuss in your chapter the essential importance of demilitarizing our schools.

Those who campaign for the cause of maintaining civilian controlled public schools struggle to maintain our democratic values.

Considering Joining a Military Service?

The Winning the Peace website is a valuable online resource answering important questions about joining into military service.

This information and the additional links will assist potential recruits in answering the questions they will have about the realities of military enlistment that they will not hear from military recruiters, and direct them to non-military alternatives to achieve their future educational and career goals.
